Course Description and Objectives

This course provides an overview of the history and major research themes of cultural anthropology. The objective of the course is to provide a solid foundation in the history and theory of the discipline.

Class meetings will be delivered over Zoom, so each student is required to have access to a web camera, microphone, and internet connection. There is no plan to audio-visually record class meetings. There is no plan to hold face-to-face meetings during the semester. Office hours will be conducted via Zoom, but, given the small size of the class, it may be easier to arrange a meeting based on mutual availability.

Reading Assignments:

There is one assigned textbook for this class, as follows:

Moore, Henrietta, and Todd A. Sanders, eds. 2014. Anthropology in Theory: Issues in Epistemology (2nd ed.). New York: Wiley-Blackwell.

Additional material will come from the primary reading. We will discuss distribution during our first class.

Assignments and Grading

Team Discussions: Each week, teams of 2 students will lead the class discussion. Each group is expected to meet outside of class to organize readings and prepare a list of questions and points of discussion and organize any in-class activities. Each student will be responsible for leading class a total of 4 times during the semester. Team discussion leadership is worth 50 points.

Written assignments: Students are required to write 6 essays based on that week's readings. I will post questions for each week (total 12), but students are required to complete only 6 assignments. Students must complete three during the first 6 weeks of the course, and three during the last 6 weeks. Essays are due at the beginning of class the following week. Written work should be 1500 words or slightly longer (double-spaced, 12 pt. font.) and focused on a particular point, idea, and/or theme occurring in the readings. Late papers will be docked five points per day past the Monday they are due. Each paper is worth 50 points (total 300).

Final Exam: There will be one take-home exam, due during finals week. The exam is worth 100 points.

Attendance and Participation: This is a graduate seminar, and students are expected to alternatively participate and lead class discussions. Because this is a graduate seminar and we meet only once per week, attendance is effectively mandatory. Unless there is a compelling reason you cannot attend class, you are expected to be here. More importantly, students are expected to also actively participate in class discussion. The participation grade is worth 50 points.

The grades and assignments for this course break down as follows:

Class participation: 50 points
Writing Assignments: 300 points
Final Exam: 100 points
Team Discussion: 50 points

Total 500 points. As for letter grades, the numbers are as follows:

A=465+, A- =450-464, B+= 430-449, B=415-429
B-=400-414, C+=380-399, C=365-379, C-= 350-364, D=300-349, E=<299

Please note that this is a required course for Anthropology graduate students. A grade of B or better is necessary to satisfy this requirement.

Academic Honesty

Unless it is specifically connected to assigned collaborative work, all work should be individual. Evidence of collusion (working with someone not connected to the class or assignment), plagiarism (use of someone else's published or unpublished words or design without acknowledgment) or multiple submissions (submitting the same work for different courses) will lead to the Department's and the University's procedures for dealing with academic dishonesty. All students are expected to honor their commitment to the University's Honor Code.

Accommodation for Students with Disabilities

Students requesting classroom accommodation must first register with the Disability Resource Center. The DRC will provide documentation to the student who must then provide this documentation to the Instructor when requesting accommodation. Please make any requests by September 9.
